DARFUR PEACE & DEVELOPMENT PARTNERS WITH GLOBAL WOMAN!!!

September 1, 2010: WASHINGTON, D.C. – Global Woman announces its partnership with Darfur Peace & Development. (DPDO)

Darfur Peace & Development (DPDO) is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization with headquarters in Washington, DC and offices in Khartoum and El Fasher, Sudan. DPDO works to foster reconciliation, to facilitate just governance and to enable Darfurians to rebuild their homeland in effective, sustainable ways. DPDO also promotes awareness of the crisis in the United States.

“The women of Darfur – and their children -- have been the primary victims of the conflict that has ravaged the western region of Sudan for seven long years. They comprise at least 80% of the 2.7 million people displaced within their homeland. The “temporary” camps established in 2004-2005 have mushroomed into sprawling shantytowns with insufficient water, sanitation, shelter, food supply or security. It is impossible to overstate these women’s needs in the face of cumulative traumas and massive deprivation. It is also impossible to overstate their resilience. That’s the ‘good news’ in Darfur – and the wellspring of a successful-against-odds program”, writes Susan Burgess-Lent, Program Director of DPDO in a recently submitted story to Global Woman Magazine.

Global Woman set out in 2010 to establish strategic partnerships with women’s organization that make a difference in the lives of women and girls worldwide. In partnering with organizations such as DPDO, Global Woman uses its publication to help bring awareness to the world on the work organizations are doing. In return, the organizations help to create awareness among their members about the efforts Global Woman makes in the lives of women - one woman at a time.
